Stare into the sun

It's far better to be hated by you than loved by just anyone
The last glimpse I got of you was of you holding a gun
And things like that can never be undone
So please just stare into the sun

You've been blind all this time
You never saw that I was good for you
To you, being with me was just another crime

I know you'd never hurt me that way
But that just wasn't enough to get me to stay
Don't beg, don't apologize, I'm sick of all your tries

I was so scared, because of all the people you have hurt
I'm still scared, because your hate I won't be able to invert
I wish I could make those people none
All I want is to forget the awful things that you have done
So please just stare directly into the sun
