Hurted

My body feels heavy, I'm cold

Every breath I take, feels like breath in gas

When I stand next to you I feel joy but when I'm away from you I feel hurted

How does that work?

The disappointment from all the shit you costed, was it worth it?

Where took your masculinity go away?

I never thought that I would feel like this Sadness drives to anger

There is no tears

Days passes forward and nothing keeps happening between us, I'm just air

We just slip away from each other...

If you love someone deep down in your heart,
you would never let the person go away

You would do everything in your power too keep it safe and loved
