

When it comes to devotion

I'm not included, when it comes to devotion
I'm instead some kind of conclusion, that got two rivals apart
I'm the one who changed minds, and the one who changed time
Your heartbeats slowed down as you saw life unwind
Paths can guide you blind, and find you solutions
Two sides fighting for nothing
Two sides almost struggling towards losing blood
Truth holds answers, truth holds sadness
As long as hearts won't fight, and as long as time won't rewind
Lots of damage will be made, and acceptance will degrade
Tell the world, how you betrayed your loss
And if you are, tell the loss you're sorry
It's unsure if it would mean much
But if you had any, maybe it would take away your worries
Drown the heart that have lived the longest
And let it sink to pass by its own veigns
Pleasure is certainly not what's in his way
Pressure stands tall, chasing it away
Causing nothing but trouble, he disappears in front of eyes
Chasing hours to pass, but time turns slower the harder he tries
It's sad how lives can be forgotten, how feelings can fade from one
Just to be strengthen into others, Maybe that was not intentional
But it's surely what happend, and it seems too strong to be undone
The sun won't be bright, the day will be night
Irony plays its part as not even feelings will ignite
I guess this is what indicates difference from indifference
I guess this is what separates persons from persons

Texten är utskriven från Poeter.se

Författaren Example med Poeter.se id #37039 innehar upphovsrätten