Sadness and joy

Would you stay

if you had the chance to walk away

Without fear without regret that you just can't forget

Now these days you're wondering why

You spend so many tears when you cry

That every one you loved seems to get sick or die

Remember the good things you once shared with them

And keep it in your hart

so the good memories never fall apart

There is a lot to embrace just give your sad and happy feelings a place

Give every one a smile and talk face to face day by day

The moments of joy are not far away and maybe that's the reason that you stay
