

Publicerad 2014-08-24 08:38 av pappersplan

All of the love

I love you,
it is so simple to say.

But it is breaking two peoples heart, it is shattering relationships already established. I am selfishly head over heels, over my head, deeply in love with you. It is unretrievable and overflowing my state of mind. I love your laughter, the freckles across your nose, I love to put my hands in your hands and how you are always warm. I love you because you understand that life is not always black and white.

It is because I love you that I put it away, that I move my heart from my sleeve and place it back to where it belongs. It is the reason to why I smile when you talk about her and giggle at your loving life in all the places at all the right times. It is because I love you that it is ok, that I make it ok.

Texten är utskriven från Poeter.se

Författaren pappersplan med Poeter.se id #47950 innehar upphovsrätten