En fråga

We everything and everywhere

We are everything and nothing.

Right here and everywhere.

Most of us are just living, some are existing.

We think that we are thinking, dreaming for the most, trying to wake up between thoughts

With an imagination that's was already bought.

Words already spoken,

Our freedom that was token

The promises that was already broken

Hopes we thought we had

Wars that will never be forgotten

Pain turns into to memories

And feeling became stories,

We are everything and nothing.

Right here and everywhere.

Most of us are just living, some are just existing.

I see time, I see space

And everything in between

I see peace in pieces

In missing places, without a trace.

Backtracking history in its work days

Am I a life or a lie

A chose or an alternative

A news story or an experience

A color or just different

A number in the equation that doses count

Or the X that's never found

Y?

Are we nothing and everything

Everywhere and right here

Some of us are just existing

While am just leaving
