Grindstone of Truth

The truth is a grindstone sharpening our falsehood until it's honed enough to expose and pierce
our rotten heart,

cleansing our soul
of the hubris and debris that was stuffed
down our throat
while we were sleeping
our years away
in blinding darkness.

The truth grinds the shadow
until its knees bend,
asking to become the light.

The truth keeps grinding until there is no one to ask.
