

Publicerad 2023-05-20 05:03 av Jenny Larsson

This is an attempt to write a poem about love but obviously it didn't went that well.

See me no more

I wish you would say you can't see me no more at least an indication of my existence once before My throat thickens from the smoke and the fire inside burning with flames consuming what's left of my pride

Please tell me when to go out to perform in my final act cause time is on the essence and that's nothing but a fact Maybe I've just been a Mirage made by moist and fog to see how could I've been so sure about you to get it wasn't me

The ghost and illusion of me is the truth of what you spot
I know you're more than certain I'm for real but I'm not I only wish I could make you aware of this deceitful game to one way or another reveal how it fools you in my name

Wanna know a little secret I'm convinced I'm gonna regret letting out the same second I show the real woman you met Then why pretend to be cold when you make me feel warm think I'm gonna follow my heart not to care about any harm

And I found a solid proof about the upsides a damaged soul might bring you when it's dead and broken beyond control You see I've figured out the cure against emotional suicide cause it's impossible to kill a soul which has already died

Författaren Jenny Larsson med Poeter.se id #231577 innehar upphovsrätten