Plants

If we realize

We are plants

That grow one

Besides the other

We need the sun

The water

The roots in the soil

Each one of us contributes

To create a field of plants

Giving shelter for the wind

Company

And companionship

We have all it takes to grow

All the intelligence and heart from a seed to the fully grown plant

We would not struggle with each other

The soil beneath our feet

The air

The rain

The sun
