

Publicerad 2009-03-11 20:35 av Tjeckspeare

Your Symphony

Oh my wild horse where did your wilderness go they saddled you and chained you forced you to carry their load they made you run by a whipping pain and left you tied outside the saloon under the blistering rain with your head down broken and tamed
and once so free

This is your symphony
every note every tone
is made beautifully
The whole orchestra
made in your name
this is your symphony
to ease your pain
cause darling you
you deserve to live again

I will sing for you I'll write you songs I'll drag the strings of my guitar in the witness of the stars cause it hurts me to see you sad and when I'm looking back to the moments that we had I want you to smile again I'll do anything to see you smile again

This is your symphony
every note every tone
is made beautifully
The whole orchestra
made in your name
this is your symphony
to ease your pain

cause darling you
you deserve to live again

(high tone)

And I will run and you will run
we will run again like we did back when when we were young and free this is for you
this is your symphony

(low tone)

Every note every tone
is made beautifully (for you)
The whole orchestra (playing for you)
made in your name
this is your symphony
to ease your pain
cause darling you
you deserve to live again

(fading)

You deserve to live again

Texten är utskriven från Poeter.se

Författaren Tjeckspeare med Poeter.se id #6493 innehar upphovsrätten