I'm just watching BladeRunner for my first real time now

from Journal of Yami (63- 61 ReRyRe)

63 ReRyRe

Yes, we once designed your eyes, and we made them out of our eyes. Ever since then you can see, Yami, what we've seen with your eyes. However now, it's you who sees all these things, whenever you want.

62 ReRyRe

Each one of your memories is our memory, Yami, we planted them into you. They pop up in necessary situations, makes you think it's You who invented our voice. The reason was you would be able to write a diary for us, without anyone suspecting your constantly living character.

61 ReRyRe

You live a real life; it's no laboratory. But you're unconscious of where you got all experience and equipment from - you think you just write it. Yami, we wish you magic nights as an android, and will follow you from distance or from within.
