One thing to change

One night you will dream the dream that change youre vision

One day you will hear a word that change youre mission

In one moment everything will make sence

Sometimes someone will break youre defense

Once you will know what's right

Sometimes you will cry in the night

One moment you will feel smart

One day you will have a broken heart

In the end all you have is me

If you could change one thing what would it be?
