

Publicerad 2010-12-04 01:33 av Dr. Vem

Jag kommer ihåg kärleken som den var då

I remember

I remember your name

I remember when you stood there in the pouring rain

I remember your eyes

Every time I wanted to save you

I remember your cries

I remember your hands

Small, delicate

Dancing across strands of love

It was definite

I remember the time

When you told me we're running out of time

It didn't seem to be mean at the time, just a wordless crime

I remember when we were fine

I remember what you said

as you kissed my head

Cried and told me that we were dead

I remember the following weeks

When you lay in that hospital bed

Smiled and repeated

"We are dead"

Every day

Every night

Nothing I could say

Stripped of all of my might but still asked you to keep up the fight

"We are dead"

You said as the cancer spread

All the while smiling

though you knew you were dying

Tried to stop me from crying

"We are dead"

Those words stuck with me

I remember you and what you meant to me

That small smile that said love is all we ever had

I remember that love

I remember your eyes

I remember your smile

And damn it if it wasn't worth every mile

Texten är utskriven från Poeter.se

Författaren Dr. Vem med Poeter.se id #35625 innehar upphovsrätten