Existence/Just Guessing

It was Shakespeare who said cruel to be kind
i wonder what he meant
by that was it something like could it be that one day you weren't here I mean I wasn't here one day and then it was a Sunday in October
sometime somewhere someplace some decade
some century
some millenium
between Georgetown and Foggy Bottom and then I was like pop
here
it all happended so suddenly and the crying began and then the laughter
I guess it might happen the same way on the way out
one day you're just here and the next day
you just aren't
you are just gone
gone
but to where Thank God for Lido's pizza maybe it's like that guy in France contended that existence precedes essence but you know when I think about it when I give it some thought isn't he like everyone else really just guessing?
