Put your lips together if you would like to whistle the future's melody with me!

Put your lips together and blow from the wind in your heart.

Let it out, transform it into a song and let it be just let it be and live.

The future has no answers to give but if you could, everyday, just before you begin your day, put your lips together, whistle and listen carefully . . .
someone has the same song in their heart.

It might be you,
it might be me,
maybe someone else,

a stranger that hasn't crossed your path
yet or never will.

But hey! Does it matter? It's out there.
Once you whistle the music is out there and remember to listen carefully. I don't know who it might be but deep in your heart you will feel it.
Someone out there whistles the same melody!

Sooo, smile before you put your lips together and sing the song you have deep within!
